A.Military. Romance. of . South. Africa

CHAPTER VIII .- (Continued.) And now behold our party descending Closer and closer he came; his eyes at the Town Hall, and stepping delicately bent on the ground, his hands behind his on the red cloth carpeting which was back, evidently lost in the deepest ab- lined at either side by a dense, discrimstraction. He had approached to within inating crowd, who exchanged audible a few paces of the summer house. Esme's and critical remarks anent the arriving heart was thumping as loudly as a big company. Miss Jane and Mrs. Brabadrum, it seemed to her own terrified ears, | zon swept their young people on the and that every other sound was swallow- stairs before them into the ladies' waited up in its audible pulsation. Miles ing room, where great pulling out of came nearer. He was within a yard of skirts and touzling of fringes and rearthe summer house, and while they them- ranging of flowers was going on. The selves were wrapped in darkness, he him- new arrivals were carefully looked over self stood in the full view of the search- by those already on the spot, "Who were ing moonlight. They could note the ac- these new girls?" was whispered. Howcuracy of his tie, the rather withered ever, they had some acquaintances, who little flower in his buttonhole, the part- welcomed them cordially, helping them to these people as I am, and you don't know ing of his hair, the gold links in his shirt take off their wraps, and envied Esme cuffs. Now he stood on the very step. her first ball.

to retrace his footsteps. in, and I had told him who you were shaking all over." there would have been no harm done." "Of course he has never heard of methe family black sheep!" "I believe Mrs. Brabazon told him you

"Upon my word! She does not stick at a trifle!

"Oh, Teddy! may not I well him?" "You shall the moment I get my com- white hair, awaiting her good pleasure. mission-no sooner! Just have patience! This old dame waited for some five min-You're always so impetuous, and in such utes with ill-concealed impatience, and a hurry about everything. I'm glad I've as she waited she had ample time to had a good stare at him. He's a good- study the lady who was figuring before looking fellow; very like that picture in the glass with such aggravating tardi- ing Esme in the tea room, while Miles the hall—the chap with the dish-cover ness. Suddenly she started, looked scru- was procuring her a cup of coffee, adand red sash, that was killed at Naseby!" tinizingly into Mrs. Brabazon's face and dressing her with such warmth that she "I suppose you mean Rupert Brabazon, in the steel cuirass?" "Yes. I'm glad to have seen him," nodding his head toward his now distant gown, lace, diamonds and all, from head cousin, "but I doubt if the satisfaction to foot, would be mutual were he to see me."

In another moment Esme had said a hurried good night to her brother, darted round the corner of the summer house, and buried herself in a thick, dusky walk, which led straight to the friendly side door, through which she vanished.

Miles had been a prey to Mrs. Brabazon all the evening, her grand friends, her health, and her airs; bound to her side by strong social cords, he could not ford," replied that miserable woman; having at length summed up Esme's ball nut, but in the spring cleaning this year get away, but he had not been indifferent to the fact that Esme had stolen out of the room an hour ago. He had seen her running down the pleasure ground. Jupp; you can't deny it; and you know Why should he not slip out, too, and me- me; you have brushed my hair and butander by her side through the shady toned my boots many and many a time! walks under the chestnut trees, instead I am Lady Augusta Sharpshooter, and of being pinned to the apron strings of you are my sister's-" a prosy, egotistical old woman? At last hopes of meeting Esme. He was going quite right. I have become what you see elbow. away for a whole week, and to return within a week. Something told him that once in her life, and, in truth, a most ab- wishes you to be introduced to her." the answer would be "Yes." But that ject spectacle. At this moment Gussie photo he had seen on the moss at his feet and Esme came forward, accompanied bowed with laudable presence of mind, that very morning kept protruding its by Miss Jane, and declared "that they but felt at the moment that she would trying to imbue his mind with the poi- with an extraordinary effort to regain her Brabazon's life. However, Miles duly sonous taint of suspicion. Who could it composure, and one beseeching glance at | begged leave to inscribe his name on her have been? A man in uniform. "No her austere old acquaintance, Mrs. Brab- rather empty program and led his partone that Esme cared a straw about," he azon was carried away. No words could ner once more back to the ball room. kept assuring himself, but still it was a paint ber feelings; she felt that a veriman in uniform! His soul shrunk from table sword of Damocles was hanging the plain truth, but was compelled to em- over her head. She had no spirit to brace it, all the same; Esme and his aunt seek out and attach herself to the great had positively assured him that she had ones of the land. She sat alone and aloof no other suitor but himself, and he be- for fully half the evening, reviling fate lieved them. He was not such an infidel for having sent Lady Augusta across her as to doubt the solemn word of two ladies | path, and asking herself what the world of his own family-one who bore the would say when they were acquainted weight of years of uprightness, and the with her former career. other who looked at him with eyes so | As Esme stood under the gallery and true and so frank that, if her tongue had gazed timidly about her, she felt absodared to ster a falsehood, they them- lutely dazzled; the immense hall was selves would have betrayed her.

That meeting at the gate he had now standing, sitting after the second dance. put down to Miss Bell. Yes, he had Miles had appeared on the scene, full of been mistaken; Esme and Miss Bell were apologies for his tardy arrival, the sole friends; she had been from home, and fault of the train, which was late. He she was an unusually tall young woman, could hardly believe his eyes when he of almost masculine proportions. Yes, beheld Esme floating around with such the apparition at the gate was peacefully grace, looking even more lovely than the laid. It is wonderful how young men in image he had fondly carried away in his love will eagerly furbish up and present mind. Certainly there was no doubt that excuses to themselves, and accept them, this dress was an adornment, and that rather than be brought face to face with even Esme was more beautiful in this any little imperfection or flaw in their silvery gauze garment, with pearls on divinity. The photograph, Miles boldly her neck, flowers in her hands, excitetold himself, was some public character. ment in her eyes, than in her ordinary Girls carried all manner of queer things common white gown, even when re-enin their pockets, as he knew from his forced by the crimson parasol. experience of his own sister. Esme had | "I have kept two dances for you," said a craze for collecting the photos of roy- she, holding out her hand with a smile. alties and celebrities. Why should not | "What! Only two?" ungratefully. that suspicious picture be the 'Crown 'Yes, lancers and waltz. Aunt Jane," from Kimberley, and that, too, is shut Prince of Germany, our own Prince of lowering her voice, "made me promise Wales, or that handsome man, the late not to dance more than twice with any-Emperor of Russia? What a fool he one." was not to have asked her!

"He is an idiot about you," said Gussie, one afternoon, in a sudden burst of frankness, "and it is very plain that he has never been in love before; if he had he would know better than to show his hand. If he were to 'dissemble' as they say in plays, or to bully you a little it I don't know anyone in the room. Isn't would be all the better for him, poor, de- it funny?" luded young man!" From which it will be seen that Augusta pitied Miles.

CHAPTER IX. at Sandborough, dawned at last; and, at you like a mandarin?" had you been on the platform at Byford, about 2 o'clock, you would have seen horror I met at the Toppingtons' Christ-V.rs. Brabazon, Miss Jane, her two mas party." nieces, her own maid, Flack, and Nokes, all departing with a world of baggage. lessly, over her shoulder, "there's little The two Miss Clippertons and their meek | Madden, and he is coming over; he has little mother filled up the compartment in caught your eye; mind you mount your which the Brabazons had taken their very highest horse." places. They were two young ladies, bound for the ball, whose slangy conver- with a red face and the tallest of colped close to their heads, very manly hats, of grin. coats and collars, and were an entirely novel experience to the dear old person | zon; this is indeed a treat. Hope you with the bobbing curls and worked black have kept a couple of dances for me?" satin handbag. They were going to the same hotel-horror! their rooms were al- the young lady, ostentatiously avoiding stone in the autumn brought a dealer ready taken.

"Ah! but you're gong to da-tuce thi; with me, are you not? or the next? 11 get you lots of partners. Don't you recollect me?" in a tone slightly tinged with amazement. "We had the pleasure of meeting at Mrs. Top's."

"I do not remember the pleasure," returned Esme, with very emphatic significance, while Miles and Gussie exchanged glances of the keenest delight.

But even this snub had but little effect on Mr. Madden. He rose to the surface with cork-like buoyancy, and boldly demanded at least one dance, and his persistent entreaties were only cut short by Miles leading his partner away to take their places in one of the rapidly forming sets of lancers.

"I did not thing you had it in you to snub anyone but me. Poor beggar, you were awfully rough on him," said Miles, as they came to anchor. "Rough! You don't know him!" vi ciously. "At the Toppingtons' party he was quite-quite-

"Intoxicated?" suggested her companion, interrogatively. "Yes, very much so; he actually took me for a school girl, and had the impudence to try to kiss me under the mistletoe," growing rather red, and speaking very fast. "Confounded cad!" muttered Miles looking over in the direction of Mr. Madden with a countenance now the reverse of indulgent or sympathetic. "I suppose," said he, looking round "that you are as great a stranger to all anyone from Adam?"

"Not quite so bad as all that," responded Esme, with a smile; "some of the Then he turned slowly away and began | "Indeed, you need not envy me," returned that young lady, emphatically; "if Maxton and Byford people are here. "Oh, Ted, I feel so dreadfully fright- it were my fifth or sixth, I should be far There, you see that nice-looking lady over ened," murmured Esme, "I know I'm more easy in my mind. Feel me!" hold- there in the white lace shawl, she is Mr. very foolish; for, after all, if he had come ing out her hand; "I'm quite cold and I'm Bell's sister, and between you are me that is Mrs. Bell's shawl!" lowering her voice to a whisper. While this conversation was going on

"Oh, and the girl near her in the swell Mrs. Brabazon had arrogated to herself dress?" an entire toilet table, and was pulling out "That is a bride-and the old gentlea ruffle here, straightening a fold there, man with the bald head, holding her fan, and rearranging her diamond stars as deis her husband. She is his fourth wife.' liberately as if she were in her own apart-"Oh, come now," in a tone of amused ment, and not keeping an aristocratic expostulation. old lady, with a haughty nose and very "She is!" indignantly.

"She is a courageous woman!" ejaculated Miles. "How do you do, Miss Brabazon?" said a tall, plain girl in a pink dress, accostsaid, in an awe-struck tone, "Why, Jupp! felt quite taken aback, for she had only in the sale of postage stamps, the total met Miss Courtenay Green at one or two for the three months reaching 1,080,151,here?" measuring her and her velvet garden parties, and then she had barely 515 stamps, valued at $20,755,119. Highdeigned to notice her save by a few tepid water mark up to this time was reached British to accomplish with their enormonosyllables and a fishlike clasp of the in the corresponding quarter ending mously superior forces, but the tactics hand.

"Your first ball, I suppose? I hope you face the color of a brick, "what do you are enjoying it," eying Esme's dress, as she spoke, with an air of critical inspection, looking at it sideways and frontways, and evidently not merely apprais- dence that the present quarter may go ing its value, but taking the pattern in ing glass!" returned the other, in a hard, her eyes, as she drawled forth remarks uncompromising tone, and with an inexabout the band, the floor and the lights, in an abstracted manner. "Is that your "I-I-am Mrs. Brabazon of Barons- cousin Captain Brabazon?" she asked, "None whatever!" very decidedly; dancing with you?" lowering her voice "whoever you are now, you were and are mysteriously. "Yes."

"Madam," exclaimed the other, with a

"I mean that it is a pretty thing that I should have to stand and wait while my sister's maid arranges herself at the look-filled by a gay crowd, who were walking,

"Not even with me?" expressively.

"Not even with you." Here Esme's partner made a bow and retired gracefully. "Evidently," he said to himself,

"Yes, I can't believe it," smiling; "for

"Excessively funny; most unaccounta-

"But who is your friend opposite? the

"Oh, look away, look away! he is a

"Esme," whispered her sister, breath-

"Now for it," said Miles, as a little man

"So charmed to see you, Miss Braba-

"No, I have not," very stiffly returned ble," replied Miles, with a smile quiver-

"the dark fellow was the man."

"I suppose your card is full?"

ing under his mustache.

the proffered hand.

mean?" trembling violently all over.

"you are making some mistake."

"The one who has come in for such heaps of money?" with still greater animation. "Very good looking, too. You may introduce him to me when he comes "Hush, Lady Augusta!" implored the back. Here he is," eagerly. "Now," he was released, and had come out in other; "for mercy sake, hush! You are with a sharp nudge from a still sharper

-the widow of a gentleman of fortune. 1 "Miles," said Esme, in the innocence and learn his fate at the bachelors' ball entreat you to keep my secret," pleaded of her heart, "what ages you have been at Sandborough, which was to take place Mrs. Brabazon, brought to her knees for getting this coffee. Miss Courtenay Green

Miss Courtenay Green beamed and

(To be continued.)

PRECIOUS GEMS ARE GUARDED. The Dealers Make Careful Note of All

Changes in Their Ownership. The dealer in precious stones keeps remarkable account of the valuable gems which come into this country. His business does not end when he succeeds in disposing of a precious stone or mounted piece at a good round figure. He can tell how many times it has changed hands since it reached these shores and usually he can tell every person in the country who owns anything in gems worth knowing about. This city is the great center of these dealers, as it is through this port that practically all gems enter. The American woman buys the finest diamonds that can be had in the medium sizes, in which the purest stone comes. The mine from which the most | ters. beautiful stones are taken, at Jaegersfontein, in the Orange Free State, has been shut up, as a great reef encountered made it unprofitable to mine further. The next best diamonds come from Wesselton, about fifty-two miles up on account of the war. The finest large diamond which ever came into this country belonged to the Morgan collection. It weighed twentyfive carats and sold for about $100,000. There was one diamond of 128 carats sold in this city and another Kimberley stone of seventy-six carats, but both were tinged with color and not nearly so valuable as the Morgan gem. Another single diamond sold in this city less than three years ago for $42,000 and it is now owned by a Western | plates. woman. The American woman likes The great day of the bachelors' ball, man with the shiny face, who is nodding her diamonds, not by ones or twos, but by dozens and hundreds, and these are formed into tiaras, necklaces, corselets, corsages and hair bouquets and sprays, all arranged with or without other stones, and so that they can be easily detached and worn in separate pieces. As the wealthy families of this country come into possesion of a large number of diamonds, their taste turns toward colored stones. The ruby is presation nearly made Miss Jane's hair come lars, and an air of being on admirable eminently the next in favor, and prices out of curl. They were their hair crop- terms with himself, advanced with a kind higher than those paid for diamonds | Whitely explained. are given for it. Two years ago a firm

$20,000.-New York Evening Post

The Department of State has been advised of the penalties inflicted by the Chinese Government upon the persons murder of Mr. Brooks, the English missionary in the province of Chan-Tung. One man has been beheaded, one stranwarning against future attacks upon foreigners, and the Government has conties of death. This is frequently done in China, and as the leaders of the mob that murdered Missionary Brooks were men of importance in the community and have the sympathy of the officials, it is highly probable that they would be able to hire others to take their places.

In six months it will be a whole half century since Galusha A. Grow was elected for his first time in Congress As Mr. Grow sat in his seat listening to the debate on the Nicaraguan canal bill John Sherman came into the House and took an adjoining seat. Sherman entered and has been everything but President. Then Representative Hitt of Illinois, congressional life spanning twenty-six years, moved up and joined his elders, The group illustrated marvelously what former President Harrison calls "the possibilities of American citizenship."

The last quarter of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1900, was a record-breaker March 31, 1898, when the total was 969, 316,538 stamps, valued at $18,611,635; a pitched battle. By breaking up into but it will be seen that the last quarter | comparatively small but effective detachexceeded that amount by 111,000,000 ments and striking swiftly as at Roodestamps and $2,144,000. There is eviahead of the last.

For years the two beautiful doors at the entrance of the White House have been grained in imitation of black walcostume; "the dark young man who was | Col. Bingham ordered the paint scraped | off so as to have them done over. To the astonishment of everybody, it was discovered that the doors were of solid mahogany and of beautiful grain. Col. Bingham ordered them restored to their situation from the British point of view. original native condition, and is now trying to find out who had them painted.

$25,500,000 within the next three months of communication was partially restored for payments on the 2 per cent bonds As fast as this money is paid out the Secretary will call upon the national banks to replace the money. The 2 per cent bonds are mostly held by the banks, which receive the money for them, and the return of government deposits to the ugly presence into his rosy dreams, and were quite ready now, if she was," and, have been almost justified in having Miss | treasury is designed to equalize the circulation throughout the country.

Last year we sent furniture to eightyfour different countries, the total valuation being $3,571,375. The trade is growing rapidly, and American chairs and beds and tables can be found not only in every civilized country, but wherever the Government Statistician Reports on inhabitants are not entirely savage.

The oldest official of the Government of the United States is Roswell Beardsley of North Lansing, Tompkins County. New York, who has held a commission as postmaster at that place since the 28th of June, 1828, nearly seventy-two years.

the United States Supreme Court the other day when Congressman J. A. Barn-Luda V., and his son, Ed C., to practice. They were admitted.

The Secretary of War has been officially informed that Capt. Carter, recently of the engineer corps, has been formally received at the Leavenworth prison and detailed for duty as a clerk at headquar-

Speaker Henderson, who lost his left leg at the battle of Corinth, has a new artificial leg, with ankle and knee joints, and hopes to be able hereafter to dispense with his cane.

Notes of Current Events. Kentucky district 4 unanimously renominated Davis Smith for Congress. Chicago Board of Trade will try to shut off quotations from bucket shops. made to blow up the locks on the Welfand canal since three men have been convicted. Over 1,000 banks have to be supplied with new currency plates, under the curto six months before all can get these Miss Florence Leonard, Arlington, Ga., is suffering from nervous prostration at Niagara Falls, N. Y. She was left all night in the rain at the top of observation to board the last car going down. Julian Ralph, war correspondent, has returned to London. He will lose a leg as a result of a wound received in the Boer war.

tower, 250 feet above earth. She failed

Small gunboat Mindova recently fired across the bow of the transport Tarlac. The Tarlac mistook the gunboat for a Filipino vessel. She was halted and Maj.

and Stripes over the Confederate capital in this city sold a single ruby for $25,at Columbia, S. C., at the end of Sher-000. Last year there came a demand man's march to the sea, has just entered for the emerald and a single beautiful the Soldiers' Home of Towa, at Marshalltown. His home was at Attica, N. Y.

WAR'S NEW ASPECT.

KRUGER'S FORCES ARE NOT YET CONQUERED.

South African Struggle Has Entered Upon a Stage Which Perplexes the British-Roberts Attacks Botha, but Fails to Whip Him.

Interest in the Transvaal war has been greatly increased by the surprising turn events have taken since Lord Roberts entered Pretoria, remarks the Chicago alleged to be responsible for the recent | News in reviewing the South African situation. The day after that event, which was generally accepted in Europe and in America as heralding the close of the gled, one sentenced to imprisonment for struggle, Lord Roberts' line of communilife and six for a term of ten years. The cation was cut at Roodeval and the milipeople of the village where the murder tia battalion of the Derbyshire regiment occurred are required to erect a monu- guarding the railway was compelled after ment on the spot with an inscription of heavy loss to surrender. This wiping out of a battalion and the news that Lord Methuen was engaged in fierce fighting tributed 7,500 taels (about $5,000) for a near Heilbron at once gave a new aspect chapel near by. It is claimed that the to the war. It was perceived that the persons executed for the murder of Mis- taking of Bloemfontein and Johannessionary Brooks were not actually guilty burg and Pretoria were incidents, not of the crime, but were substitutes hired crises, to the mobile forces of the Boers, by the real assassins to suffer the penal- and that in turn they were applying Lord Roberts' tactics to himself. Whether this rear attack and severing of the line of communication by destruction of the railway for twenty miles will have the result of compelling Lord Roberts to a retrograde movement remains to be seen. The later reports that Bloemfontein had been retaken by the Boers and that De- for her child, and finally when the change wet at the head of 13,000 men was of life comes on, no medicine on earth is marching against Johannesburg lack con- of equal efficacy to the woman in this firmation. Gen. Kelly-Kenny has in part retrieved the disaster at Roodeval by defeating the force of burghers who cut the British line of communications, but the fact remains Congress only a little later in the fifties, that the war has entered upon a new and perplexing stage to the British. This new phase cannot properly be called guerwith continuous service in diplomatic and | rilla warfare any more than the movements of the American forces after the British capture of Washington in 1814 ing forces remained intact-the scene for five years. I cannot say too much in only of the conflict was changed.

In the case of the Transvaal it is evident that British occupation of Pretoria and Bloemfontein will be precarious until the main body of the Boers has been met and defeated in battle. That would, probably, not be a difficult thing for the of the Boers are wisely to prevent such val the Boers may be able to prolong the war for some months yet. Their success in this direction is likely to inspire them with renewed hope and energy. It is this fact, rather than the actual loss of a battalion of men, that disturbs London and England to-day. Gen. Kelly-Kenny's success and the fact that Gen. Buller has at last pierced the Drakensberg mountains and entered the Orange Free State with the result of making the Boer position at Laing's Nek untenable, are the relieving features in the Lord Roberts has fought a battle with Gen. Botha, at the end of which, though the British gained considerable ground, Secretary Gage will disburse about the Boers were not beaten. Roberts' line by a victory gained by Gens, Methuen and Kitchener over Gen. Dewet. The Boer camp was captured and the burghers, it is added, were scattered. As matters now stand it looks as if the Boers might maintain the unequal struggle for a long time, and this consideration, in connection with the grave events occurring in China, has brought the English people to a more serious mood than it has known since the earlier and darker days of the war.

DECREASE IN WHEAT ACREAGE.

Crops Through the Country.

The monthly report of the statistician of the Department of Agriculture states that as a result of a special investigation relative to the winter wheat acreage, plowed up or cut for forage the department's estimate of the area remaining under cultivation has been further reduced by 1,676,000 acres, the area aban-An unusual spectacle was presented in doned, in addition to that announced May 10, comprising 581,000 acres in Ohio, 79,-000 acres in Michigan, 220,000 acres in ham of Texas moved to admit his wife, Indiana, 318,000 acres in Illinois and 448,000 acres in California. This brings the area in winter wheat remaining under cultivation on June 1 down to 27,908,000 acres, a reduction from the area sown in the fall of 5,240,000 acres.

Notwithstanding this further reduction of acreage by the elimination of all land entirely abandoned, the condition of winter wheat declined during May 6.2 points, the condition on June 1 being 82.7, against 88.9 on May 1; 67.3 on June 1, 1899; 90.8 at the corresponding date in 1898, and a ten-year average of 80.7.

Preliminary reports on the spring wheat acreage indicate a reduction of about 567,000 agres, or 2.9 per cent. Minnesota, Wisconsin and Oregon report a reduction of 4 per cent, North Dakota and Nebraska of 5 per cent and Iowa of 6 per cent. In South Dakota and Washington there is an increase of 1 per cent. The average condition of spring wheat on Canadians fear other attempts will be June 1 was 87.3, as compared with 91.4 on June 1, 1899. Minnesota falls 10. North Dakota 17, South Dakota 11 and Wisconsin 9 points below their respective ten-year averages. On the other hand, the ten-year averages are exceeded rency act of March 14. It will be four in Nebraska, Iowa, Oregon and Washington by 15, 1, 4 and 9 points, respectively. The total reported acreage in oats exceeds the acreage harvested last year by 3.9 per cent. There is an increase of 16 per cent in Ohio, 28 per cent in Indiana, 9 per cent in New York, 3 per cent in Pennsylvania and Wiscor-in and 1 per cent in Minnesota. The average condition of oats is 91.7.

The warning just sent out by the State Department against the swindling advertisements relating to pretended estates in England awaiting claimants is only a repetition of similar warnings, and it is not expected that it will put an end to these frauds. The English attorneys who are engaged in this business have appar-George W. Dart, who raised the Stars ently as complete an equipment as the regular dealers in green goods.

Maurice Finley, 5, Chicago, is dead from falling out of a fourth-story window. Elmer Link fell over a railing to the ground, eight feet below, and is dead.

Stumped the School Visitor. A visitor at a Columbia, Mo., school the other day asked one of the lowergrade class this question: "What is the axis of the earth?" "An imaginary line passing from one pole to the other, on which the earth revolves," proudly answered a pupil. "Yes," said the examiner, well pleased, "and could you hang a honnet on it?" "Yes, sir." "Indeed! And what kind of a bonnet?" "An imaginary bonnet, sir." The visitor asked no more questions.

GIRLHOOD, WOMANHOOD AND MOTHERHOOD

Are Renovated, Regulated and Restored by the Pelvic Catarrh Remedy,

Peruna. Mrs. E. C. Everly, 505 Diamond street, Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I feel well, never felt better, thanks to your attention and Peruna. I will be glad to do all I can in the way of advancing the sale of your valuable medicine. I do think Peruna the best medicine I have tried at any time. Since I began taking Peruna we have never been without it." Read what an elderly woman says-a woman who has passed through all the phases, crises and experiences of girlhood, womanhood and motherhood: "I really believe that every woman in the world ought to have Peruna on hand all the time; for, if she gets tired, Peruna refreshes her; if she gets nervous, it soothes her; if despondent, it cheers and invigorates. It is a panacea for all irregularities of her monthly periods.

"It is a constant friend to the expectant mother; a never-failing stand-by to the nursing mother, both for herself and critical period. Surely Peruna is the woman's friend. This is no maudlin flattery, but is the simple, plain truth of the matter Miss Bertha E. Sargent writes: "I can scarcely find words to express my gratitude to you for all your kindness to me. We have used Peruna in our family for the past year and find it a wonderful medicine. It has robbed the grave of one victim, for I was in a critical condition when I wrote you before. Thanks to you, however, my health is fully recould be so called. In each case the fight- stored and am better than I have been favor of your medicines.

'If you can use any words of mine to assist you in your work I will only be too glad. I wish every young lady in our town could read your book. There would be a great deal less sickness and puny women.

Send for a free copy of Dr. Hartman's book on catarrhal diseases peculiar to women. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A Finid Easily Affected. Housekeeper-That milk you left yesterday was perfectly borrid. It tasted Milkman-Milk is easily spoiled, mum. Had you been cookin' gar'ic?

"No, we hadn't." "Been keepin' garlic in th' milk pans, maybe?"

"We never use it." "Queer. Maybe some o' th' neighbors has been cookin' garlic."

"No, they haven't." "Any visitors at your house yester-

"Not even a caller, except my daughter's French teacher."

"H'm! Better drop French, mum."-New York Weekly.

Summer Food Suggestions

Libby's Luncheons are indispensable helps for everyone who plans the meals or does the cooking during the Summer months. They are fire-savers and time-savers. The wholesomeness and purity of these products appeal to every lover of good things to eat.

Some of Libby's Convenient Foods: Veal Loaf, Deviled Chicken, Potted Ham, Pork and Beans, Ham Loaf, Boneless Chicken, Corned Beef Hash, Breakfast Bacon, and our little book, "How to Make Good Things to Eat," tells about sixty more delicious foods prepared by us.

$250.00 in cash prizes for Amateus Photographers. Two prizes, $50.00 each, and fifty-eight others in cash. Write for partic-LIBBY, McNEILL & LIBBY, CHICAGO.

ABSOLUTE

Genuine Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below. Very small and as easy

FOR TORPID LIVER. FOR SALLOW SKIN. FOR THE COMPLEXION GENUINE MUST NAVE SIGN Price Purely Vegetable / Street food

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

